WINE REGION

Over the past few years, South Jersey's wine industry has grown tremendously. From just a handful of fully-functioning wineries and vineyards in 2005, the region now boasts more than 20, thanks in part to the 2006 designation of the Outer Coastal Plains as an official AVA. Since then a transformation has begun, with numerous wine events and festivals – not to mention a great variety of tasty wines – garnering national acclaim. If you don't already think of South Jersey as a great place for wine, you soon will.

What is an AVA?

The term AVA is short for "American Viticultural Area". AVA's are official wine grape growing regions of the United States designated by the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau. In order for a region to be approved as an AVA, it must be able to prove its identity as a unique physiographic region and as a region that is beneficial to grape growing. Some of the criteria used by the federal government to determine whether an area meets this standard include distinct climate, soil type, and elevation and other physical features as well as a history of wine grape growing.
(from www.outercoastalplain.com)

What is the Outer Coastal Plain?

The Outer Coastal Plain American Viticultural Area (AVA) covers over 2.25 million acres in Southeastern New Jersey. It was established by the federal government in 2006. There are nearly 200 AVA's currently in the US and the Outer Coastal Plain AVA is among the top 10% in size. The wine industry in this AVA currently comprises over 20 wineries and commercial vineyards.
