GLOUCESTER COUNTY GETS TOP CREDIT RATING UPGRADE FROM MOODY'S

Moody's has raised Gloucester County's credit rating to the highest level, Aaa, reflecting the county's strong financial health and stability. Gloucester County government has earned this triple A bond rating for the first time ever in its history.

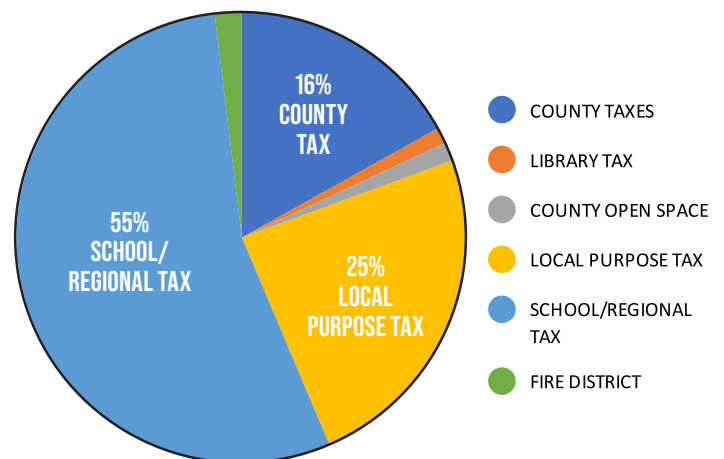

Although the county has had a strong bond rating over the years, a double A positive, achieving the highest rating available is a remarkable milestone. This upgrade, announced on June 23, highlights the County's ongoing efforts to responsibly manage its finances according to the independent financial rating agency.

Why is this important? Just like your own personal credit score when securing a mortgage or car loan, the higher your credit score the better buying power / lower interest rates you can achieve when financing. This is the government's version of a personal credit rating score. With this rating, the County when going out to the financing market has the ability to receive the best interest rates and maximizes our buying/borrowing power. This coupled with reducing the overall county tax rate in 2025, for the 5th consecutive year highlights a strong 2025 fiscal year for Gloucester County and its residents.

Moody's points out, despite lowering taxes, the County has maintained appropriate level reserves and kept its debt manageable — key factors that contributed to the Aaa rating upgrade. Moody's also notes that Gloucester County's financial performance is expected to remain strong in the near future, supported by reliable revenues and a growing local economy that continues to attract new businesses. CELEBRATING 25 YEARS OF GLOUCESTER COUNTY CERTIFIED GARDENERS

For 25 years, the Gloucester County Certified Gardeners, under the oversight of Commissioner Matthew Weng, have educated the community on eco-friendly landscaping and conservation. Since 2000, 273 participants have become certified, with 152 still actively volunteering. They've contributed over 171,000 volunteer hours valued at $3.4 million, pioneered rain gardens, and operate South Jersey's only Butterfly House, drawing 6,000 visitors each season. Their Pollinator Pit Stop program now includes 352 registered gardens, promoting pollinator-friendly yards.

The gardeners also donate fresh produce to local food banks, host around 40 educational events yearly, and partner with local groups on festivals and historic site projects. They provide free gardening advice through their Garden Helpline, assisting over 1,000 residents annually. This milestone celebrates their ongoing commitment to a greener, healthier Gloucester County.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY STAYS READY FOR ANYTHING DURING NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS MONTH

September is National Preparedness Month and the Gloucester County Department of Emergency Response, under the leadership of Commission Director Frank J. DiMarco, is reminding residents to plan ahead, because emergencies can affect every member of your household, including pets.

Residents can do their part by taking three simple steps: know your needs, make a plan, and gather emergency contacts. Use tools like the ASPCA's Disaster Preparedness Checklist to build an emergency kit for your entire family.

"The incredible men and women of our Department of Emergency Response work year-round to protect and enhance the safety of every resident through an integrated system of public safety services, and we're proud to be the first in New Jersey to dispatch emergency services countywide." - COMMISSION DIRECTOR FRANK DIMARCO
